

TAG TEAM WRESTLING: Since they won the most dollar votes, homecoming court members George Woods (12), Whitney Zouchi (12), Lindsey Thomas (12), Eric Dean (12) and Misasa Muchmore (12) tested their strength as a baby pool of mud. Although only two were supposed to wrestle at one time, by the time Dean and Muchmore began their match, all the contestants piled in much to the delight of the crowd who had gathered to watch. Wrestlers did get grumped if they stood too close.

FREE CONCERT: While other clubs begged students to part with their money, Northern White, Todd White (9) on drums, and Jarrett Myers played for free drawing on students outside the activities office. Spontaneous dancing erupted occasionally as freshmen gathered. Beaten this hand at the other end of the patio members of the drum group played as a crowd gathered to watch the mad wedding.

RANSOM: Hoping to raise seventy dollars to get his car back after it was towed that morning, Zach Kreser (12) appeals to the sympathy of passersby to donate money. Kreser raised eighty dollars. Most clubs paid a ten dollar fee to Junior House to have a booth at Club Fair. Kreser's impromptu booth was organized in his second period class who helped him make the sign. Kreser's car was towed because he let his parking permit sticker. The car had gotten the orange warning stickers on two previous occasions. Kreser was told it would be towed if he parked in senior lot again.

Competing for Customer's Cash at Club Fair

So why Las Vegas style? Brian Borles (11), Adam Becker (10), and Ryan Mitchell (11) got the cheer squad's attention. Complete groups of friends will lend themselves to a social photo to mark the event. "I went out with my girlfriend for over a year and all the sudden this guy says 'no,'" said Mitchell.

Pumpkin grams are the offering of Winter's Club member Nathan Oberon (9). For a dollar, a note on a paper pumpkin and a piece of candy were delivered to students much the same as Valentines on February 14. Students bought pumpkin grams for friends.

FUN, FOOD and FUNK

Getting up early on a block day would have normally generated gripes and complaints, but when classes let out for an hour of food, fun, and festivities, no one complained. Junior House sponsored Club Fair on Thursday, October 17.

"My favorite booth was DECA because they sold Einstein bagels. I ate three bagels and would have eaten more but I didn't want too get fat," said Lindsay Stewart (10).

"The wedding booth was my favorite. It would be so fun to get married and the next day have no commitment," said Charmaine Toledo (10).

Money is forked out for hamburgers, doughnuts, bagels, caramel apples, and even to ransom a towed car.

Events - Club Fair | Laurei Booth & Melissa Muchmore

Outside Interests

To keep your readers actively engaged in the spread content, place photos in the outside corners of your design so they logically lead readers into the content.

This staff has done a great job of choosing and placing photographs so each leads readers into the center rather than off the spread.

Sandia High School | Albuquerque, NM